1). Do you have the time, patience, and energy to put in to training your dog?

2). Do you think you have reasonable expectations for your dog and the training process? What are your expectations?

3). Are you 100% committed to following the behavior plan that will be provided to you and always set your dog up to succeed?

4). Have you ever used aversive techniques or punishment in the past, and if so, do you agree to only use positive reinforcement and methods in the training process going forward?

I understand that behavior modification can be a slow process and there is no easy fix. Rehabilitating my dog may take several months, or years. I understand that I will be given all the tools to help my dog with his/her issues, big or small, and my dog will not get better without my consistent participation in the positive reinforcement behavior treatment program. I will contact Sara via email or phone if I have questions or need support.

I will always set my dog up to succeed, not let my expectations of my dog overshadow his/her needs, and allow my dog time to change his/her behavior without force, fear, or pain. Above all, I will have fun with my dog during training and let him/her blossom to his/her full potential. If I need to reschedule, I will do so within 24 hours and follow-up to set a new appointment time. Sessions and packages are non-refundable and expire after 6 months unless otherwise discussed.
